It's a Big Thrill To Referee in Big 10, Paul McKinnis Says

BALBOA LOOKED OUT on the smooth clear waters and said, "This must be the Pacific ocean."

But wait a minute. Wrong Balboa.

Balboa looked from the hardwood floor of the big field-house, packed with thousands of yelling fans, and said: "Yep, ain't this something?"

Timmo is speaking of Paul McKinnis. Many of you know the big, pleasant fellow from Eldorado. To those who know him well, his nickname is Balboa.

I don't know how he got this nickname and I was in classes with him every year from the second grade on through high school.

But what I'm getting around is this: I bet not too many persons who read this article know that McKinnis, who is principal of Washington grade school at Eldorado, is a Big Ten sports official.

Paul, who for years called high school football and basketball games in southern Illinois, moved into the Illinois and Kentucky college circuit for both sports and last fall he moved up to that exclusive circle of Big Ten officials.

He's full-fledged in basketball but as yet has not been assigned to any big-time Western Conference grid tilts. The Big Ten assigns officials to Notre Dame, Bradley and Marquette athletic contests as well as to its own members and McKinnis, in his initial outing as a conference whistle blower, took part as umpire in the game between Michigan State and Oregon at Lansing, Mich., and Marquette and College of the Pacific at Milwaukee. He doesn't know yet what his assignments will be this fall.

But in basketball McKinnis really got put to the test. He called games at Ohio State, Wisconsin, Purdue twice, Iowa, Michigan and Northwestern in the conference and was assigned to games at Bradley, Notre Dame and DePaul.

"It's one of the biggest thrills a fellow who likes sports can have, to walk out on the floor with thousands of cheering fans up in the stands," he stated.

(Balboa didn't say how it thrilled him when he called a couple in a row against the home team and the reaction came down to make a boeing blast against his eardrums.)

At Iowa he got to see "Bucky" O'Connor, who was assistant coach at Harrisburg when Ken Hoek first came to Harrisburg. O'Connor now is head basketball coach at Iowa and remains a high type fellow in McKinnis' book.

McKinnis was umpire in the intra-squad game at Champaign a week ago Saturday and stated that our Fred "Catfish" Wilmoth looked good in action for the university.

He said that after one particular play he started unpinning the players and Catfish emerged from the bottom.

"Hello Cat," Paul said to Wilmoth.

Cat just looked at him, then said: "It's a rough game, Paul."

Besides officiating, Paul is an accomplished speaker. He fills numerous engagements as master of ceremonies at banquets and as speaker at a number of commencement ceremonies in this area and this week he goes to Ridge Farm, which is south of Danville. Next week he will deliver the commencement address at the Hobart, Ind., high school.

Today is 50th Anniversary of Laying Court House Cornerstone; Addition in '38

The meeting of the Saline County Board of Supervisors was called to order by Chairman James A. Watson and the business before this group of men from all parts of the county was to discuss the building of a new court house.

It was on August 3, 1903, that this meeting was held and the structure discussed was the one that is still standing inside the court house square, excepting an addition that was built to the south side in 1938.

And it was fifty years ago today—May 18, 1954—that the cornerstone was laid for the structure that now houses the court house officials and records.

Officers, Board Members Named

Those who want to look at that cornerstone can walk up to the northeast corner of the building and inspect it. The stone reveals that it was "Laid by the Masonic Fraternity, William B. Wright G. M., May 18 AD 1904, AL 5904."

It also shows that J. W. Gaddis of Vincennes was the architect and that J. B. Ford and Robert King of Harrisburg were the contractors.

The county officers and county board members had their names on another side of the stone. Shown are the following:

James A. Watson of Eldorado, chairman; W. P. Peebles of Tate, G. D. Clark of Galatia, W. J. Emspon of Brushy, R. V. Groce of Carter Mills, J. N. Martin of Stonefort, James Lyon of Long Branch, M. J. Jones of Raleigh, F. E. Bauder of Harrisburg, John Odum of Independence, Thomas Mahoney of Rector, A. P. Brown of Cottage and Charles Blackman of Mountain, the board members.

And the county officers: John L. Thompson, judge; A. E. Somers, state's attorney; Joel Mooneyham, sheriff; J. R. Baker, coroner; James H. Pearce, master in chancery; E. M. Stricklin, circuit clerk; Sam Barter, treasurer; L. E. York, school superintendent; J. P. Cain, surveyor; and W. S. Dorris, county clerk.

Witnesses Tell Of Fracas Before Tyler Death

Jury Returns Verdict of Death by Accidental Drowning

A coroner's jury last night returned a verdict that Robert Tyler died by accidental drowning when a car overturned in a creek on Route 34 north of Harrisburg, at an inquest which revealed he had been struck down in a fracas that occurred earlier in the morning.

Testimony that he had been hit either by a fist or open hand and that he fell to the ground came from Carl Eugene Shelton and Raymond Conway Gibbs of Harrisburg and Guy Plunkett of Eldorado, who were with Tyler when the incident occurred on the gravel road that leads off Route 45 between the Middle Fork bridge and Muddy.

The testimony of the trio at the court house last night revealed that the four had been to Shawneetown Friday night and that they returned through Eldorado in Plunkett's car and stopped at Plunkett's for a while, then came on toward Harrisburg and pulled off on the gravel road that leads due east a short distance north of Middle Fork bridge.

It was Plunkett's car in which Tyler plunged off Route 34 into the water-filled lateral off Bankston creek early Saturday, testimony revealed.

Shelton told of the trip back from Shawneetown and stopping on the gravel road. He said Tyler got hit one time and so did Plunkett. The liek knocked Tyler down, but not out, he said, and Plunkett started running off.

He said that he, Gibbs and Tyler came to town in Plunkett's car with Gibbs driving and met Patrolman Paul Abney, telling him they had Plunkett's car because he had run off and didn't want to get picked up for car theft. Abney, he testified, said they should go back to the scene and look for Plunkett, which they did, but couldn't find him.

Admits Slapping Tyler

They returned to town with Tyler driving, getting out at Walnut and North Main, with Tyler starting to Eldorado in Plunkett's car, he said, adding that they took a taxi home.

Gibbs told the same story, declaring he slapped Tyler with his open hand and that it knocked him down.

"He sat there for a minute and then I helped him up," he said. Gibbs said the argument that started the fracas was the result of Tyler taking a bottle of beer that belonged to him when they were at Shawneetown.

Plunkett also told of the events leading up to the halt on the gravel road. He said a skirmish began "and when they got onto me, I took off."

He went to the Herb Williams home and called the law, he declared. Deputy Sheriff Isham and Threet arrived at the scene and

Examine Lake Abstracts; Will Not Grant Concessions

City Attorney D. F. Rumsey today told the city council that he had been examining abstracts on land required for Lake Harrisburg the past week.

Rumsey said that in some cases he had found some defects and that he had notified the parties to come into his office to get them straightened out.

He also said he had been receiving reports that some concessions had been promised to land owners on the lake site and pointed out that the lake definitely cannot be commercialized, such as permitting individuals to put in boat docks and concession stands on the city's property.

Mayor Ralph Horning, who also said the city cannot grant such privileges, declared that it will do what it agreed to do and nothing more. He reiterated that when the engineer's report, abstracts and deeds are ready, the city will get the funds from the $200,000 bond issue voted in March.

Fire Destroys Home at Equality

The one-story frame home of the Austin Houston family at Equality was destroyed by fire this morning. The house is across the bridge in the southeast part of town.

Fire was of undetermined origin. Mrs. Austin, who had been to a neighbor's, entered her house and found the ceiling ablaze. It burned rapidly. Contents were also destroyed.

South Forms Battlelines To Preserve Color Barriers Despite Decision by Court

ATLANTA (AP) — Dixie segregationists formed battlelines today in an effort to preserve the South's traditional color barriers despite the Supreme Court's historic decision that segregation in the public schools is unconstitutional.

The high tribunal issued its long-awaited document Monday. It came after months of deliberating an issue regarded as the most vital affecting one region since Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

The Supreme Court scheduled further arguments for next fall on vital issues connected with its unanimous decision and affected states were invited to submit additional briefs in the cases. Only after that will enforcement machinery be drafted.

Thus, Negro and white students will not be going to school together in large areas of Dixie for perhaps many more years.

The possibility of the long delay tempered reaction among white Southerners which ranged from appeals for calm to blunt warnings that no court decision can overthrow segregation in the South.

Most Dixie congressional delegations were highly critical. Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi said "The South will not abide by this legislative decision by a political court."

One of the biggest surprises of

Arms Shipment To Guatemala Security Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department spokesman said today that Communist shipment of arms to Guatemala could be considered a threat to security of the Western Hemisphere.

Spokesman Lincoln White said he is not forecasting any U. S. action in connection with Russian-handled shipments of arms to Guatemala. But he conceded that some move could be taken against Guatemala under terms of the Rio Treaty.

The treaty provides, among other things, for consultation among American nations to decide what should be done to combat any threat to the security of the Western Hemisphere.

Action Taken Here

White said the United States brought attention of the other American states to the arms shipment Monday. He said the action was taken here, but he declined to give further details.

White was asked whether the arms shipment is the sort of thing that would bring action under the Rio treaty.

White replied that certainly something could be done under the treaty, but that he was not forecasting what the United States might do.

Officials had emphasized earlier that the United States itself probably will not press for action, preferring to let a Latin American nation initiate any move.

News Heard Monday

News of the arms shipment to Guatemala came late Monday in a dramatic State Department announcement. The department said it had "reliable information to the effect that an important shipment of arms had been effected from Soviet-controlled territory to Guatemala."

It said the arms were shipped from the Polish port of Stettin. The shipment arrived in Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, Saturday and is now being unloaded.

Board of Review Begins Hearings on Tax Assessments

The Saline County Board of Review, which hears objections to assessments made this year, went into session today, considerably earlier than usual.

William Alfred Smith, Galatia, chairman of the board of supervisors, is board of review chairman; John Carter of Eldorado is holdover member and Herman McFarlin of Independence township has been reappointed to the board by County Judge Ralph W. Choiser.

The board is meeting in the southwest corner room on the first floor of the court house.

The law provides the board meet on or before the third Monday in June and in past years the board has met in June, then adjourned until the assessment books start coming in.

This year, however, the board is meeting early on advice of the state department of revenue at Springfield, chiefly because of several duplicate assessments on personal taxes last year and to get into this year's work early because this is a year to assess real estate, Smith declared.

the decision was that it was unanimous. Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, who hurled one of the sharpest barbs at the court's action, said he had expected at least a divided opinion.

For the immediate future, some action by Southern state groups was in prospect. Alabama's special committee to recommend segregation-preserving steps to the legislature will meet within a week, as will a similar Georgia group. The Louisiana legislature, only one in the South in session, will begin a study of the decision's impact.

Mississippi Gov. Hugh White will name a new legal advisory commission to draft legislation to evade the court decision legally. Virginia Gov. Thomas B. Stanley promised to call an early meeting of state and local government leaders to consider the whole problem.

There was almost unanimous opinion among state leaders that Negro teachers would be hard hit for employment should all segregation barriers be thrown away.

The court said that no decrees to implement its decision would be handed down until further arguments are held. It restored the cases to the court docket for further argument on these vital points:

1. Should Negro children be admitted without further delay to "schools of their choice?"

2. Should school districts be allowed time for a gradual transition to a non-segregated status?

3. Should the Supreme Court appoint a special master to hear evidence to recommend specific terms of decrees to be ordered by the court?

4. Should the high court send the segregation cases back to the lower courts with instructions to frame decrees for implementing the non-segregation decision; if so, what procedures should the lower courts follow in arriving at specific terms of the decrees?

States on the fringe of the Deep South expressed willingness to comply to the letter with the Supreme Court order, whatever it eventually may be. Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma were among them. Not so with the stronger segregation states like Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi.

Announce 'Save Your Soil for Illinois' Contest

The Saline County Soil Conservation district announces the "Save Your Soil for Illinois" contest again this year. This contest is conducted by the State Department of Agriculture through the Division of Soil Conservation.

Alva Gholson, Eldorado, chairman of the local Soil Conservation district board, suggests that thru good participation in the contest Saline county will recognize the accomplishments of farm operators practicing soil conservation methods.

Entries will be judged according to:

1. Farm Plan (crop rotations, etc.)

2. Progress made in conservation practices.

3. Neatness and general appearance of the farm.

The Saline county winner will compete with other county winners for a council prize. Council winners will compete for a state award.

Prizes are as follows: Local District—engraved plaque from Governor William G. Stratton; Council—Cold Spot freezer or the equivalent; grand prize—state winner will receive a $1,000 Savings bond.

The council and state prizes will be given by Sears Roebuck and company.

Entry blanks are available from either the farm adviser or the Soil Conservation district office, or from any member of the district board. Entries must be filed at one of the above places by 5 p. m. June 5.

Work Underway On Route 45 Between Harrisburg, Carrier Mills

Many men and pieces of road-building equipment are at work on highway 45 between Harrisburg and Carrier Mills on a building program that includes repair and resurfacing of the highway.

Although there was considerable grading along the road, two-way traffic was permissible at the noon hour with the exception of one short stretch of highway where traffic was on a one-way basis.

Music Concert Tonight

The Morrisville grade school will present its spring music concert, a program of instrumental and vocal music, in the school gymnasium this evening at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. John Woolcott will be in charge.

Committee Also Votes Against Windfall Profits

Motion by Democrats To Restore Program Is Approved, 12-3

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee today voted to make it impossible for builders to reap "windfall" profits on government-insured housing mortgages.

The committee, in a victory for the Democrats, also voted to restore a public housing program to the administration's bill.

The votes came as the committee began revising the administration's housing program so as to prevent any recurrence of the scandals recently uncovered in the Federal Housing Administration.

Would Polish Present Laws

Democrats served notice at the opening session that because of the scandals they want to concentrate on perfecting present housing laws, rather than incorporating new programs proposed by the administration.

Chairman Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) announced that the committee unanimously adopted a Democratic suggestion that it be made "absolutely impossible for builders to realize any windfall profits on government-insured mortgages."

Part of the current housing scandals have revolved around the multi-million-dollar "windfall" profits made by builders who received government-insured mortgages for more than the cost of apartment projects and then pocketed the excess as a quick profit.

Democratic Motion Approved

On a motion of the Democrats, the committee voted 12 to 3 to restore the full public housing program, as first established in 1949, to the housing law. Those opposed were Republican Sens. Capehart, Wallace F. Bennett (Utah) and John W. Bricker (Ohio).

The 1949 public housing law, providing for the construction of 800,000 public housing units, goes far beyond President Eisenhower's recommendation for 140,000 units over a four-year period.

The committee earlier had received specific recommendations from Acting FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason for overhauling the housing laws to prevent further scandals.

Most of his proposals were aimed at safeguarding government-insured home improvement loans on which most of the alleged abuses occurred.

Urges School Aid

Other late news: Schools: Sen. Earle C. Clements (D-Ky.) urged a Senate labor subcommittee to approve federal aid for construction of primary and secondary schools. He said the Supreme Court ruling outlawing racial segregation in public schools probably will intensify the need for new school buildings.

Why It's Tough to Teach Asians 'The American Way'

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The difficulty in trying to win away from communism persons in undeveloped areas is that no one has known what went on in their minds when they joined.

Why did communism appeal to them? What did they think of the Russians? Of America? Of Washington, the atom bomb, Wall Street, their own government, their own future?

An attempt to answer these questions has recently been made on a group of 60 Malaysians of Chinese extraction. The test was the work of Dr. Lucian W. Pye, of the Center of International Studies, Princeton University.

Dr. Pye's study is part of a larger research project on the mental reactions of ex-Communists throughout the world who have broken with the party.

Dr. Pye is a big, blond ex-Marine intelligence officer who served in the Pacific during the war. He was born in China of American parents and speaks Chinese fluently.

HE WAS WELL-FITTED, therefore, to interview 60 Chinese in Malaya who had quit communism when they found it did not measure up to its promises.

All are now active anti-Communists. They had no hesitancy in talking to Dr. Pye, recounting their experiences in minutest detail and giving their reactions to world political and economic forces affecting their lives.

Nearly all of the 60 believed that Russia won World War II. They had heard of Stalingrad and the Russian defense of Moscow. They knew the Russians got to Berlin first.

They believed that the United States and its allies made a forced landing in France only to keep the Russians from taking over all of western Europe.

They had heard that the United States had perfected the atomic bomb first, and had dropped it on Japan. They thought that very clever of the Americans—to let all the others get killed in actual combat while the Americans themselves were perfecting the atomic bomb.

The Chinese-Malaysians believed afterwards that the American atomic bombs were no good. Otherwise, why hadn't they been used in Korea? Russian atomic bombs of today were thought to be better than American bombs.

THE CHINESE BELIEVED that their countrymen had won the war in Korea. Normally having an inferiority complex with regard to America and things American, here was one thing that made them proud of China. It gave them a feeling of superiority, even though the victory had been won by Communist China.

These people whom Dr. Pye interviewed all had a great appreciation for skillful propaganda. They believed it an essential part of politics. They believed that any one good at propaganda would be good at other things too.

They all believed rumors more than they believed what they read in the newspapers or other printed publications. The reasoning behind this was simple.

Anyone putting anything in print would be expected to have an angle. But what they heard by word of mouth was real. The teller was thought to have his information first hand, by personal experience.

These people believed that politics was always subject to change, and that it was important to be on the winning side. They sensed the power of the Communist Party. They felt that it was expanding. There was no comparable organization to which they could belong in a democracy.

ABOUT AMERICA they had the most confused notions. They knew that prices of tin or rubber went up or down from time to time, but they did not know why. They had a vague notion this was due to the manipulations of Wall Street. This they imagined to be a street of bungalows set in broad lawns where the rich lived. Prices were set low to squeeze the workers, then raised again before the workers revolted.

They had heard of Washington as the capital of America. But when asked what they knew about Washington, some of them volunteered the information that there was one street in Washington on which only poor people lived.

They did not believe that anyone in Russia was poor.

Out Our Way

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

A House Big Enough

THE STORY: Tom Dahlstrom's marriage to Lenny Allen comes as a shock to two women, Tom's mother, who lives with Tom and now with the young married couple, and Astrid Nelson, who had been a former girl friend of Tom's. Astrid calls on the Dahlstroms and Lenny overhears Astrid and her mother-in-law discussing divorce as a solution for a mistake in marriage.

VIII

The moon, high up in the clouded sky, flung long shadows through the big window in the distance, the forests upon the hills edging the farm were dark and gloomy in the weird night light.

On the other side of that forest, Astrid Nelson was preparing for bed too. Rash words burned to the tip of Elaine's tongue and she spoke to Tom accusingly, "If you had married Astrid instead of me, you'd have another 360 acres to add to this farm someday."

Tom didn't seem to notice the tone of Elaine's voice. He yawned audibly. "This is Wisconsin, not South Dakota," he objected mildly. "I prefer to farm by the acre, not by sections."

Then Tom's hands were on Elaine's shoulders and he spun her around. All her doubt and fears melted under the fire of his kiss. Slowly his arms slackened as she drew away, weak and breathless.

The blades of the windmill on the hill outside the window of the Dahlstrom house gleamed coldly in the dull moonlight. Involuntarily Elaine shivered. Mrs. Dahlstrom's heart was cold and unresponsive and as hard to reach as the top of the windmill itself. The doubt and fear began to creep back into Elaine's heart.

For a long time she lay in the unfamiliar bed, listening to Tom's deep, regular breathing, and trying to push aside the hurt and irritation she felt. He had not chivalrously dropped asleep their first night home! She tried to think of other things.

Suddenly, a bubble of delight burst inside her. Soon he'd be waked up more unceremoniously than when he was in the Army. Bill, the hired man, had driven away right after supper. Surely, by now, the whole countryside knew that Tom Dahlstrom had brought home a wife. Any minute the neighbors would arrive to play their spoon-on-kettle and tin horn serenade. No wedding was complete without a charivari.

She heard Bill drive into the yard and open the back door. His heavy footsteps reverberated through the house as he made his way across the kitchen and dining room floors. A few seconds later she heard the sound of a door closing. As though nothing were afoot, he had gone into his bedroom. He didn't fool her!

Moments dragged by. The clouds that were beginning to roll over the moon became heavier in the rising wind. Big drops of rain began to splatter against the window and on the room. Disappointment welled up inside her. Why had the neighbors waited so long?

Abruptly, the rain took on an angry vehemence. In spite of the deepening sound outside, she could hear the dull throbbing of the vessels in her neck. She buried her head in her pillow. There would be no celebrations for young Tom Dahlstrom and his wife. None unless Mrs. Tom's mother invited the guests. And there was no possibility of that!

Gradually, Elaine realized that she was very tired. The rhythm of the rain became a soporific. The last thing she remembered was the rain, the blessed rain that would soak the uncommonly parched fields.

Tomorrow Tom could begin the fall plowing which had been delayed for weeks and weeks. Tom, her Tom, would be the first farmer in the area to experiment with contour plowing. Resting her hand on his muscle-hard arm, she sighed contentedly and fell asleep.

The sun was high over the forest when Elaine awakened next morning. Leisurely, she slid out of the massive walnut bed, stepped barefoot on the thick, braided rug and strolled to the window. Curling up and student members of the SIU Girls' Rally, a service organization.

By Williams

on the windowseat, she let the sun shine on her for a moment, wishing it would warm her spirits like it warmed her body. She gazed down in the valley where dairy herds grazed on the rain-freshened meadows, unimpressed by the monotonous drone of Tom's tractor. Memories of last night pressed down on her, bringing with them the well-remembered fear and haunting sense of insecurity. Oh, if only she hadn't broken that plate.

She tried to whisper a prayer. "Please, God, make Tom's mother believe I'm truly sorry. Make her accept me. Make her like me." That helped a little. Dressing quickly in a pair of old brown slacks and drawing an old cardigan over her blouse, Elaine made the bed and started downstairs.

Careful not to touch the glossy banister, she skimmed down the steps. But her feet grew heavy as she walked through the sun-brightened living room and into the dining room. She paused at the kitchen door.

Mrs. Dahlstrom apparently hadn't heard her footsteps on the polished linoleum. Staring out the window, she nervously opened and closed her thin hands over the handle of the woven basket on the table before her.

At last Elaine forced herself to speak. "Good morning, Mrs. Dahlstrom. How is your thumb?" Mrs. Dahlstrom pushed back the sag in her shoulders and without turning her head, said, "Good morning. My thumb is fine, thank you."

"Are... are you fixing a picnic?" Elaine inquired timidly.

There was a brittle quality in Mrs. Dahlstrom's voice. "No picnic this," she replied. "I'm getting ready to take morning lunch out to Tom and Bill." The ring in her voice filled Elaine with new dismay.

Red Planes Fly Across Truce Line in Korea

SEOUL, Korea (U)—The 5th Air Force reported today that Communist airplanes flew across the truce line twice in the past 24 hours in violation of the armistice agreement.

An Air Force spokesman said a complete report on the violation was filed with the United Nations Military Armistice Commission at Munsan.

A single plane, believed to be a jet, slipped across the truce line this morning and flew over the Seoul area while U. S. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was touring the front in a helicopter convoy.

A 5th Air Force spokesman said another Red plane crossed the cease-fire line Monday night "but didn't come down as far as the one this morning."

"Both of them are being reported as truce violations," he said. The jet that flew over Seoul evaded F86 Sabre jets which were ordered into the air immediately, and no American pilots saw the Red aircraft.

"The report was based on a radar chart," the spokesman said.

Federal Reserve Report Shows Decline Halted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government economists said today the latest federal reserve board report shows the business decline has been halted.

Construction work continued at a record high during the past six weeks, the board said. And the adjusted industrial production index did not decline for the first time since last July.

Government economists cited the report to support their contention that the business dip has hit bottom. But they do not expect any immediate upsurge to new peaks of prosperity.

They generally foresee business continuing at about the present levels until next fall. A definite upturn might start then, they said.

Continued gains in privately financed construction accounted entirely for the value of contract awards increasing "substantially" in April. The number of private housing units started rose seasonally to 109,000, slightly more than a year ago.

The production index declined from 125 to 123. But this was normal for this time of the year and, after seasonal adjustments, the index figure was still 123—the same as in March.

The adjusted index has been sliding since last July when it hit the all-time high of 137 for the second time in three months. It was 136 in April, 1953.

However, the decline slowed down at the end of last year and since then has dropped only three points below December's 126.

The industrial production index measures the output of the nation's factories and mines with the 1947-49 average taken as a base figure of 100.

EAST ST. LOUIS ®—Two AFL construction union leaders pleaded innocent today to federal indictments charging them with violation of anti-racketeering statutes.
The defendants, Evan R. Dale of Carbondale and James Bateman of Murphysboro, were granted 15 days to file demurrers by ing their arraignment.

White House Says President Will Not Change Order on Testimony of Aides

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House indicated today that President Eisenhower has no present intention of changing his order limiting testimony of administration officials at the Army-McCarthy hearings.

The Secretary declined further comment on the matter.
"I can think of nothing that is a more silly question," Hagerty said.

The Senate investigating subcommittee voted Monday to recess the hearings until next Monday in order to explore the possibility of getting Mr. Eisenhower to lift or modify his order, which forbade Army counsel John G. Adams to testify about a high-level administration meeting last Jan. 21.

Adams had testified previously that Presidential Asst. Sherman Adams instructed him at that meeting to compile a dossier on alleged attempts by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and his chief counsel Roy M. Coha to get favored treatment for Pvt.
G. David Schine.

Mr. Eisenhower ruled Monday that details of the meeting were confidential and could not be disseminated to Congress without jeopardizing presidential prerogatives under the Constitution.

Mundt Plans Meeting
Hearing Chairman Karl E. Mundt
(R-S.D.) had said he would meet with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. today to begin efforts to get the President to revoke or modify the secrecy directive.

McCarthy meanwhile told reporters he thought Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens should join him in asking Mr. Eisenhower to lift the order.

NEW YORK ®—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples said Monday night its new goals will be the elimination of discrimination in jobs and housing throughout the nation.

Walter White, executive secretary of the association, said after announcement of the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in schools, that President Eisenhower had assured him personally that no federal funds will be used to promote segregation of any kind.

Lease 3,000 Acres
In Williamson Area
MARION, Ill. ®—E. E. Rhen, an Evansville, Ind., geologist, has taken oil and gas leases on 3,000 acres of land in northeastern Williamson county.

Drilling operations were expected to start in 30 to 60 days in tests for oil.

Wildcat drilling north of here and near Johnston City in 1949 was abandoned when only small quantities of oil were found.

A producing well on a farm north of here was good for 10 barrels a day for 40 days in 1950 before being closed. A Salem firm plans to reopen the well in the near future.

Funeral Wednesday
Of Mrs. Ollie Mitchell
The funeral of Mrs. Ollie Mitchell, who died suddenly yesterday morning at her home on Star Route, Herod, will be Wednesday

Rev. Earl Barton and Rev. Will Stevens will officiate, and burial will be in the Colbert cemetery.

The body was taken from the Gibbons funeral home to the family residence to lie in state until funeral time.

James Spivey Rites
Held at Elizabethtown
The funeral of James Spivey, 68, Elizabethtown, was held yesterday at Keeling Hill Church in Hardin county. Rev. Joe Rose officiated, and burial was in the Kar-bers Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Spivey, father of Mrs. Robert Dillard, Harrisburg, died Saturday morning following a five-months' illness.

Legion Poppy Poster

In the poppy poster contest sponsored by the American Legion test. Edna Arden Gearhart won

Green Cowser, 67, former resident of Akron, Ohio, who just moved to Rosiclare two weeks ago, died suddenly of a heart attack at the Rosiclare hospital Monday at 7:30 p. m.

He was a veteran of World War
I, and his wife is the former Josie Shelter.

The body now lies in state at the Rottman funeral chapel, and funeral plans are not known.

TRAFFIC STOPPER—A squirrel gets the "V.I.P." treatment from policeman Eugene Barratone, who stops traffic in Washington, D. C.,

Eisenhower Flies To N. Carolina For Celebration

CHARLOTTE, N. C. ®—President Eisenhower flew here today to honor the memory of hardy pioneers who 179 years ago led the struggling young nation in declaring its independence and freedom.

The President landed at Municipal Airport for a visit of a little less than two hours to celebrate the anniversary of the famed Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence.

Political undertones also figured in his visit.

Mr. Eisenhower was accompanied by Army Secretary Robert T.
Stevens. The White House said Mr. Eisenhower invited Stevens to fly with him after learning Stevens was going to Charlotte to represent the Army at the celebration.

The trip, by chance, came on the heels of a history-making Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.
The ruling may produce far-reaching political and sociological upheavals in the South.

Only GOP District
The celebration was staged in the only congressional district in North Carolina now held by a Republican. A hot contest over the seat is already developing with the Democrats out to try to retrieve it in the November election.

Mr. Eisenhower brushed aside political implications in his trip at a recent news conference. Asked whether he would take the occasion

BONUS BABIES AND THE BAT BOYS—Bonus babies make it difficult to separate Detroit players from the bat boys. There's a scant age difference between the bonus beauties and Francis McGarry, 16, second from left, a high school student, and Johnny Robb, 19, second from right, also a student, who look after the bats. A year ago, Infielder Reno Bertoia, 19, left, was a college freshman and Outfielder Al Kaline, 19, center, and Pitcher Bob Miller, 18, were in high school. (NEA)

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON

Today we run the third in our baseball quiz series. How do you baseball fans like this feature? Know we have at least two satisfied readers—received a couple of postal cards from Carrier Mills saying they enjoyed the quiz and hoped we continued to run 'em.

Baseball fans have the privilege of the second guess—and the Baseball Quiz offered by The Sporting News gives them the same opportunity, with a couple of extra chances thrown in for good measure. In addition, you score yourself—and if your total points are over 25, you'll get a free copy of the national baseball weekly if you send in your name, point total and name of this newspaper on a POSTCARD. Remember, you MUST give the name of this newspaper and use a postcard.

Score yourself 10 points for a correct first choice, 5 points for a second choice, 3 points for a third choice and 1 point for a fourth choice. We'll try you on home runs, ready?

1. What club's outfielders were the first to each hit a home run in one game for the 1954 season.

( ) Cubs ( ) Giants ( ) Redlegs ( ) Senators ( ) Indians ( ) Yankees

2. Who was the last major league player to hit three CONSECUTIVE home runs in a game?

( ) Kiner ( ) Mathews ( ) Rhoads ( ) Rosen ( ) Vollmer ( ) Zernial

3. Stan Musial hit five home runs in a double-header on May 2, for a new major league record. What player first hit four home runs in a double-header before "The Man" had his big day?

( ) Averill ( ) Foxx ( ) Kiner ( ) Nicholson ( ) Taber ( ) Zernial

4. One player holds the record for most hits, all home runs, in consecutive games. He hit six homers in six straight games, one in each game, for his only hit in the contest.

( ) Bottomley ( ) Hurst ( ) Lazzeri ( ) Ruth ( ) Cy Williams ( ) Ken Williams

5. Which of the following players, hit the most home runs in 1953?

( ) Ray Boone ( ) Del Ennis ( ) Mickey Mantle ( ) Frank Thomas

Answers to this quiz will appear in this column Wednesday.

Billy Herman gets a chuckle out of relating this story on Stan Hack, says The Sporting News: Burleigh Grimes was pitching for the Cubs with Stan playing third. Hack made a boo-boo on a grounder and snapped his fingers in disgust. Grimes might have gotten out of the inning except for another error by Hack, who again snapped his fingers to show his chagrin. Charlie Grimm, managing the Cubs, yanked Grimes. But Burleigh, boiling, snarled: "Why take me out? Why not the guy who is only snapping his fingers at the ball?"

Correlation Wins Preakness Prep

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Horsemen along Pimlico's shed row today pointed to Correlation's come-from-behind victory in the Preakness Prep as proof that the California colt didn't leave his racing shoes back at Churchill Downs.

The beaten favorite in the Kentucky Derby won the mile-and-a-half Preakness Prep for Saturday's second triple crown race Monday by a head over Hasty House Farm's tenacious Hasty Road.

These two speedsters clearly were the best of an eight-horse field. And with Derby winner, Dermot, out of the Preakness, they still loom as the colts to beat Saturday.

Hasty Road, second in the Derby, led all the way until overtaken in the stretch by Correlation.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker permitted Correlation to drop back to last until the five furlong marker but then quickly carried him into contention. At the head of the stretch, Correlation was just a half-length off Hasty Road and won driving.

Rink King, regarded as a possible strong contender, finished third, about four lengths in back of Hasty Road, but some trackmen thought the Ada L. Rice entry was not being pressed.

Pleads Guilty

Hugh Travelstead today pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated when arraigned before Police Magistrate Charles McKenzie. He was arrested by city police last night after his truck figured in a collision with an auto driven by Mrs. C. W. Whitley on the south side of the square.

Hank Sauer Paces Cubs to 10-6 Win With Grand-Slam Homer; Cards, Phils Split

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer

Hefty Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs, who has even turned basestealer in his anxiety to prove that this is 1952 all over again, today came busting out of a batting slump that had threatened to block his campaign.

Hank's first grand-slam home run of the season, highlighting a seven-run outburst in Monday's fifth inning, carried the Cubs to a 10-6 victory over Pittsburgh and wrote a resounding finish to a batting letdown that had gripped the Bruin outfielder for a week.

Sauer, the National League's "most valuable player" in '52 but a bust in '53 when injured hands hampered him, broke fast from the starting gate this year, his slugging including a 15-game hitting streak, before the recent week's slump hit him.

Tied With Musial

As a result, the 6-foot, 4-inch slugger stands tied with Stan Musial of the Cards for the major league lead in homers with 12, ranks third in runs scored with 29, and fifth in runs batted in with 30. To top it off, he has a thundering .343 batting mark—far above his lifetime .269.

Sauer really cracked his slump with a flourish, adding two singles and a walk to his grand-slam and even delighting his fans by scampering to his first stolen base of the season—on the back end of a double steal, of course.

That seven-run rally wiped out a Pittsburgh 2-0 lead, which was created in the third inning by Bob Skinner's two-run double. It tagged Pirate rookie Bob Purkey with his fifth defeat of the year against a single win and made it possible for veteran lefty Howie Pollet of the Cubs to gain his first win of the year, with relief help.

Phils Cards Split

In the only other National league action, the Philadelphia Phillies split a pair of games with the St. Louis Cardinals, winning 8-4 and losing 8-0, and thus falling into a first-place tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers for first place.

The only American league game Monday saw Jackie Jensen blast a three-run homer in the eighth inning, right after Ted Williams had been purposely walked, to give the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 win over Detroit.

The Phillies' first-game win was the completion of a game interrupted by a curfew law on Sunday after six innings when the Phillies were leading, 6-3, veteran Murry Dickson hurled the last three innings to protect the first major league win for rookie Paul Penson.

Four Redbird Homers

The Cards walloped four homers to win the regularly-scheduled night game, three of them off Phillie ace Robin Roberts. Wally Moon, lead-off batter in the game, clouted the first and later Rip Repulski and Ray Jablonski rocked Roberts, and Musial bagged his 12th homer of the year off reliever Karl Drews. Moon's blast would have been enough to win, since Joe Presko went on to shut out the Phils on seven hits for his third win.

Detroit was leading the Red Sox, 3-1, in the eighth inning with a runner on second and two out when Ned Garver intentionally walked Williams. Jensen smashed Garver's first pitch for a three-run homer to win the game. Rookie pitcher Tom Brewer got credit for his first victory.

Monday's Star: Hank Sauer of the Cubs, who paced a 10-6 win over the Pirates with two singles, a walk, and a grand-slam homer.

Flunkett said Tyler, a handicapped man, had not been drinking too heavily.

Robert Lee Hall, cab driver, told of taking Shelton and Gibbs home early Friday morning.

City Policeman John Stunson told of going to the scene north of town and wading in the water trying to find a body, then calling a wreck-

City Policeman Paul Abney told of the trio approaching him uptown in Harrisburg, and telling about the car. He said he saw a little blood on the end of Tyler's nose but since they didn't appear intoxicated he didn't pay too much attention.

Ike Williford, Martin funeral home embalmer, described Tyler's injuries. He said he didn't see any injuries on his body serious enough to kill a man but that there was enough water in his lungs to have caused his death by drowning.

Magazine Survey Finds McCarthy Power at Low Ebb

WASHINGTON — A magazine survey reports that any candidate backed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in this fall's election probably will lose more votes than he will gain.

The survey, conducted by former Agriculture Department statistician Louis H. Bean and reported in the current Look Magazine, found McCarthy's vote-getting power at an all-time low and getting worse.

"If McCarthy himself had to run for re-election this year, he'd probably be defeated," the article declared.

In the survey, Bean found that of 100 people questioned in March about McCarthy supporting candidates in their district, 26 said they would be less inclined to vote for the candidate and 21 more inclined.

In April, however, he found 46 out of 100 opposed to a McCarthy-backed candidate and only 17 inclined to vote for such a person. The rest were non-committal.

CIO, U. S. Steel Begin Wage Talks

PITTSBURGH — The CIO United Steelworkers Union laid its 1954 contract demands before the giant U. S. Steel Corp. today at the opening session of talks which probably will set the pattern for the industry's 1,200,000 workers.

More than 131 representatives of the company and union, including "Big Steel" Board Chairman Benjamin F. Fairless and USW President David J. McDonald, crowded into the conference room.

The negotiating committees were the largest ever to take part in the U. S. Steel-USW talks since their first meeting in 1936, probably due to the fact that all provisions of the contract—wages, hours, working conditions, insurance and pensions—were open for negotiation.

The USW also said it wants a guaranteed annual wage for its 600,000 members employed in the basic steel industry.

50th Anniversary of Court House Cornerstone

it was in poor physical condition.

Records show that a building committee on May 6, 1901, after inspecting the structure, found extensive remodeling would be necessary and even bids were taken. But nothing was done.

Then in August, 1903, the board members met and decided to build a new court house, its cost not to exceed $25,000, plus the materials that could be used from the old court house.

Mr. Mahoney, Mr. Bauer and Mr. Peebles were named as a building committee.

Also, it was decided to hold a special election Sept. 4 on a special tax levy of 75 cents on the hundred dollars for the 1903-04 tax year to raise the amount needed. The proposition was approved.

On Sept. 26 the plans of Architect Gaddis were approved and Oct. 31, 1903, Mr. Ford and Mr. King were awarded the contract for the court house construction for $29,386.

Addition Built in 1938

Three new members joined the board at its April meeting—Harry Bramlet of Long Branch, D. D. Woolard of Galatia and George Dodds of Carrier Mills. And at this meeting it was voted that the plan for the laying of the cornerstone be adopted as suggested by the architect. It also was voted that the day and hour for laying the stone be the 18th day of May, 1904, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Then Chairman Watson appointed Members Odum, Jones and County Clerk Dorris to get an enrollment of the schools and churches of Saline county and gather other items that the committee might see fit to place beneath the cornerstone of the new court house.

The ceremony completed, the construction went on without delay and the new building was accepted by the board February 4, 1905. County officers, who had been in rented quarters in various buildings around the square during the construction, moved into the court house on Feb. 6.

The 1938 addition was constructed at a cost of $39,000 from plans made by R. D. Brown. Edward Boyer of Eldorado was foreman to oversee the work, done as a relief measure by county labor.

French Planes In All-Out Attack On Red Forces

HANOI, Indochina — Every French bomber and fighting plane in Indochina was thrown into an all-out attack today on Red Viet Minh forces pouring down the strategic highway from Dien Bien Phu to Hanoi under protection of a "mercy" truce.

The sweeping attack all along Route 41 was ordered after the Communists failed to heed a French ultimatum to halt the troop movements that violated an agreement for the evacuation of French Union wounded from fallen Dien Bien Phu.

Communist Viet Minh Radio promptly accused the French of scuttling the evacuation of their wounded. The broadcast warned that the bombings would not "halt the progress" of the Indochina Red army. In Geneva the Viet Minh charged that the renewed bombings had killed 15 French wounded.

The Reds made a vague offer to free 18 more of the 1,400 wounded men held at the isolated fortress. In the first four days of the truce period, only 11 men were freed.

French military authorities said that in the same period Red Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap moved an entire division from Dien Bien Phu to the Red River delta where it is poised for a possible attack on this key stone of French defenses in Indochina.

To Ask Non-Segregation At Centralia Pool In Federal Court Suit

CENTRALIA, Ill. — A suit asking the end of racial segregation at Fairview Park swimming pool here will be filed in Federal District Court at Carlyle Thursday.

The Centralia chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will file the suit, the Rev. T. B. Starks, chapter president, said.

The pool is scheduled to open May 30 and the Rev. Starks said his group is "demanding equal rights because the pool is operated by taxpayers' money." He said "we do have colored people who do not swim at Community Beach" which is the only place in the area now open to Negroes.

The Rev. Starks said there is a lack of privacy in facilities at the beach and also said Illinois has a law which gives "people... a right to use any facilities open to the public."

Nehru Charges Dulles Once Favored Red China in UN

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru advocated admission of Red China to the United Nations today and startled Parliament by charging that U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles once favored this stand.

The Prime Minister read passages from a book which Dulles wrote before he became secretary of state. In the book, Nehru said, Dulles pleaded strongly for reality and admission of every government to the United Nations.

Nehru quoted Dulles: "I now come to believe the United Nations will best serve the cause of peace if its assembly is representative of what the world really is, without attempting to appraise closely those nations which are good and those which are bad."

"If the Communist government in China in time proves its ability to govern China without serious domestic resistance then it should be admitted to the United Nations," Nehru read from Dulles' book.

Dulles recently has opposed such recognition.
